

From the Desk of Mark Pugh

Happy New Year! I hope that your new year is off to a fantastic start! Don't forget, with the new year comes a new opportunity to make sure all of your landscaping is picture-perfect. While it's still cool outside, give us a call and we will give you a free property analysis; we can even take care of all of your lawn-care for you!

Starting in April, we will begin mowing and edging for the new year. After a few weeks of growth, we will begin a regular schedule for your landscaping and lawn care needs.

Don't forget: Pugh's Earthworks is your full-service landscaping installation and maintenance company.

Pugh's Tips & Clips

Your Very Own Winter Garden

A beautiful winter garden is a perfect reminder that spring is right around the corner. In a protected area of your garden, you can grow a variety of frost-hardy plants. When dedicating a specific area of your yard to a winter garden, it's good to try and block the area from winter winds. Wooden fences or natural green fences made from evergreen shrubs and trees can serve as wind breaks. Remember to pick an area for your winter garden that gets plenty of sunlight.

Once you have a protected area, you can grow a number of attractive ornamental plants in your winter garden. Pansies are a good pick. Many bulbs also flower in late winter and early spring. Grasses like blue fescue and blue oat grass maintain some of their color and their structure during the fall and winter.
